

REMESO Graduate School

Courses for Swedish and International PhD and MA students

Autumn 2010:

Theories and Politics of International Migration

September 27 - October 29. Intensive week in Norrköping October 11-15.

Lecturers: Peo Hansen, Branka Likic-Brboric, Stefan Jonsson, Charles Woolfson, Linköping University, REMESO and guest lecturers.

This course explores both theoretical and empirical aspects of international migration. The course combines overviews of general theoretical and empirical developments with more specific analyses of various cases and developments at different levels (e.g. global, regional, national and local). The course also brings forward critical perspectives on current migration policy developments.

Deadline for applications: August 27, 2010.

Citizenship, Ethnic Division and Social Exclusion: National and Post-national Perspectives

November 1 - December 3. Intensive week in Norrköping November 15-19.

Lecturers: Magnus Dahlstedt, Josefina Syssner, Khalid Khayati, Peo Hansen, Linköping University, REMESO and guest lecturers.

This course explores the normative aspects of citizenship. It sets out by surveying the theoretical literature on citizenship. Particular attention is paid to the past two decades' heightened focus on the interrelations between citizenship and migration, and on different models of citizenship—post-national, cosmopolitan, trans-national, etc.—beyond and below the level of the nation-state.

Deadline for applications: October 1, 2010.

General information:

- The courses are offered to postgraduate students (PhD and MA).
- Courses comprise 5 weeks of full-time work for 7,5 ECTS. Students spend one intensive week at REMESO, at Linköping University, Campus Norrköping. The Course examination consists of the successful completion of a shorter research paper.
- Post-graduate students with a permanent residence in other countries than Sweden may apply for a travel grant.
- REMESO Graduate School awards a course certificate earning 7,5 ECTS upon successful completion of one of our courses.

For information and application form:

www.isv.liu.se/remeso/remeso-graduate-school